Waldorf education was developed around 1919 by Rudolf Steiner on the basis of his own founded anthroposophy. It is attributed to the reform pedagogies at his times. Steiner conceived the Waldorf education at the 1919 in Stuttgart opened operating school for the children of the workers and employees of the Waldorf Astoria cigarette factory (now Free Waldorf School Uhländshöhe). According to this model, so-called Waldorf schools soon developed in other places, first in Germany, but then also in other countries. Today Waldorf education is practiced worldwide. Waldorf education serves as a theoretical foundation for Waldorf schools and kindergartens. In addition, there are also schools in institutions of anthroposophic curative education. In Germany there are 561 Waldorf kindergartens & 237 Waldorf schools, 1857 Waldorf kindergartens in 65 countries worldwide & 1092 Waldorf schools in 64 countries.

Eurythmy is an expressive movement art originated by Rudolf Steiner in conjunction with Marie von Sivers in the early 20th century. Primarily a performance art, it is also used in education, especially in Waldorf schools, and – as part of anthroposophic medicine – for claimed therapeutic purposes.

Rhythm & Sounds is a musical approach to socially team-building and revealing self-consciousness, and self-reflection.

Ursprüngliche Spiel / Original Play is a form of encounter and dynamic relationship "play", which was created by the 73 year old native US American Fred Donaldson, who teaches this method in over 40 countries for over 40 years. He now lives in Austria and teachers in Oct. 2018 in China.

Experiential Education deals with group experiences in nature to develop personality and social skills. Natural sports offer a variety of experiences, supplemented with methods from theater, adventure and game education, group dynamics and social education. Experiential education is today regarded as an integrative component of holistic education and training concepts. Originally rooted in reform pedagogics, it has recently gained in importance as key skills such as social skills, risk-taking, and personality play an increasing role in society.

Biodynamical agriculture is the art of agriculture cultivated by holistic oriented reform "eco" farmers in the 1920ies inspired by Rudolf Steiner.
